

Licensed Brokers Listing

If you have content that you think would be a great fit for Christian families to find and purchase on Behemoth.com—we want to know about it! Behemoth.com exists to provide downloadable Christian movies, audiobooks, sermons, messages, music and more—all at the click of a button! And, Behemoth.com is looking to constantly grow, obtaining more great content to inspire and encourage Christian families.

Behemoth.com is open to accepting content for review from any artist, ministry, company, or provider. However, for best results and to streamline the process, Behemoth.com has chosen to work through licensed brokers for the majority of our content. They have the information, financial structure authorization, and handle the screening review process of the proposed content. Should your content be accepted, a contract and royalty arraignment will be worked out by the brokers, and your product prepared for hosting and sale on Behemoth.com. We look forward to hearing from you!

Please contact any of these brokers for further questions and to schedule a review of your products:

Broker—Neil Craig

After receiving his degree in music, Neil taught music and served as Minister of Music in several churches. For 10 years, he was on the music staff at Back to the Bible Broadcast, which included traveling with the Back to the Bible Quartet as their accompanist. He enjoys playing the piano and organ, arranging and orchestrating.

Neil is excited about the possibility of placing your music/products on Behemoth.com to expand your ministry and to give you an opportunity for increased revenue.

Broker—Scott Eash

Though I began my career as a filmmaker and author, I soon saw the need to build an extensive distribution network for Christian filmmakers to reach a mass audience. I have successfully distributed such notable films as Siblings: Heartstrings, The Monstrous Regiment of Women, and Joel's Journey. Now I want to help you!

If you have produced quality, God-honoring media, please contact me to see how I can help you reach a worldwide audience. But I'll do more than just get your product listed on Behemoth.com. If needed, I will also gladly assist you in preparing the content for submission, writing a product description, and designing cover art. Contact me to get started!
